Declares Recent Monetary Alliance of England, U. S., France Supplanted Frenzied Finance of Old

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Standing before Minnesota's massive state house, President Roosevelt tonight attributed to reciprocal trade treaties an "increased general trade" which he said was benefiting American industry and agriculture alike.

The first major address of his 5,000-mile campaign swing through some of the nation's finest agricultural centers, it produced:

An assurance of continued active support for farm co-operatives from the administration, a statement that the AAA had depicted "economic democracy in action," and references to such varied topic as dictatorship, the new international monetary accord and world peace.

Speaking just across the Mississippi river from Minneapolis, where Governor Alf M. Landon, of Kansas, recently criticized the administration's reciprocal tariff program, the President contended that those activities were one influence toward "economic co-operation which leads to international peace."

Thousands Hear Address.

Thousands of persons packed into the plaza in front of the capital burst into cheers as the President's car rolled up just after dusk had fallen and brought the night's twinkle from windows of office buildings and homes spreading out from the base of the hill on which the capitol stands.

Colonel Joe Nelson, of the Minnesota national guard, estimated 30,000 persons gathered before the capitol plaza to hear the President.

Mr. Roosevelt spoke from a stand erected on the broad steps immediate-

Black Legion Colonel Accuses Prosecutor

DETROIT, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Harvey Davis, Black Legion "colonel," told a court yesterday that he and six of his fellow members, to life imprisonment for murder today, that Duncan C. McCrea, Wayne county prosecutor, was a member of the hooded order.

"I am not guilty of this crime," Davis is quoted as saying. "I didn't get a fair trial. Mr. McCrea, however, the prosecutor who prosecuted this case, belongs to the Black Legion, and it was a perjured trial."

McCreya, who has been prominent in the Black Legion investigation since its inception, unqualifiedly denied Davis' charge. Such reports were circulated once before Mr. McCrea denied he knowingly had joined the order but said he had joined many membership applications while he was campaigning for office.

Borah Will Not Make Address for Landon

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Senator William E. Borah, independent Idaho Republican, declared today he will not make a campaign speech for Alf M. Landon, G. O. P. candidate for president.

"I shall confine myself to issues," he said in a written statement here today.

"I have no plans which will take me out of the state. Idaho is a sufficient rostrum. I can discuss questions there just as easily as I can in New York."

This is the nearest the Idahoan has come to revealing where he will stand in the national campaign. In his re-election campaign speeches he has cut across party lines to laud the administration for its assistance in silver, and immediately condemned him for permitting agricultural imports into American markets by trade agreements.

LANDON PROMISES BALANCED BUDGET BY ENDING WASTE

Says He Will Keep Up All Necessary Relief But Save a Billion Now Unnecessarily Expended

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Governor Alf M. Landon promised tonight to balance the federal budget within four years if elected by "efficient administration" and by ending "wholesale waste and extravagance."

Sounding a demand that voters "put the spenders out" and saying President Roosevelt's budget-balancing "assurances" were "political hush-dashings," the Republican presidential nominee said an audience in the huge Chicago stadium and by radio throughout the country:

"If I am elected, the budget is going to be balanced . . . not by depriving our people of relief, not by refusing necessary aid to our farmers, not by swamping the country with taxes."

BIG GAIN IS SHOWN IN BANK DEPOSITS

Total of $51,335,000,000 Highest Reported Since 1931 by Reserve Board.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Federal Reserve Board announced today that the nation's bank deposits climbed to $51,335,000,000 on June 30, the highest level since June, 1931.

Deposits with mutual savings banks and member banks of the Federal Reserve system were described by the board as "close to the largest volume on record."

"The American people know that it is more than a game—that our very existence depends upon keeping our financial house in order. But if the administration wants a banking analogy—if they want the score—it is easy to give. It is written clear on the books."

"Twenty-five billion dollars spent. Thirteen billion dollars added to the public debt."

Reserve Requirements.

Reserves were 42 per cent in excess of requirements after the new regulations went into effect, in comparison with 102 per cent prior to August 15.

Required reserves were $1,480,000,000 larger in the second half of August than in the first half, the board said, attributing the increase "almost entirely" to the growth of the economy.

Major General Moseley Advocates Atlanta War for Increase in Safety.

Appointment of a "dictator" with full authority over Atlanta's traffic laws was recommended to the Fulton grand jury yesterday by Major General George Van Horn Moseley as the only way a distressing traffic situation can be cleared up in Atlanta.

The general, who is commander of the fourth corps area, appeared before the jury upon invitation of Foreman Elmer L. Stanley and A. R. Dorsen, chairman of the special segregation committee.

The grand jury Tuesday will submit to the Fulton county commission and the state prison commission a full plan for segregation of first from old offenders in the prison camp, it was said.

Harsch Inquiry.

The entire grand jury is expected to come from Washington early next week. Mr. Allen has been slightly ill at his Milledgeville home for several days, but it is understood his physician has informed him he will be able to assume his new duties here by the middle of the month.

Judge DeLoache has been the state attorney since the unitation was organized in Georgia two years ago. He has made an enviable record, as is evidenced by the fact his resignation, first submitted in the spring, was rejected by Washington officials, and it was only upon his insistence that it was accepted this week.

Mr. Allen is one of middle Georgia's best known lawyers and business men. He is a member of the law firm of Sibley & Allen and also has wide business and banking connections.

Information from Milledgeville yesterday was to the effect that Mr. Allen will continue to direct his interests here, giving his new job in Atlanta a maximum of four or five days.

Foreman Stanley said the entire grand jury was sympathetic to the views of General Moseley and that recommendations along these lines will be included in the final presentation.

It was understood the army commander advocated employing a director of traffic from outside the city to handle traffic problems in the city, and also urged that all machines allowed on the streets and highways be examined by competent mechanics to determine if they are mechanically sound.

Text of Landon Address

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—The following is the text of Governor Alfred M. Landon's address:

"Tonight I am going to talk about the federal budget. And incidentally, I, too, am going to talk about it in billions."

"First, let me make my position absolutely clear. If I am elected, the budget is going to be balanced. It is going to be balanced, not by depriving our needy of relief, not by refusing necessary aid to our farmers, not by swamping the country with taxes."

"The budget is going to be balanced by cutting waste and extravagance; by putting an end to the use of public funds for political purposes; by restoring hard-working, painstaking, common-sense administration."

"This question of balancing the budget is of vital importance to every man, woman and child in this country."

"Let me give you three reasons why this is true."

"It is true because 'upon the financial stability of the United States depends the stability of trade and employment and of the entire banking, saving and insurance system of the country.'

"These words are not mine. They were spoken by Candidate Roosevelt at Pittsburgh, four years ago."

QUOTED ROOSEVELT

"It is true because 'if the nation, like a spendthrift, throws discretion to the winds, is willing to make no sacrifice at all in spending, extends its taxing to the limit of the people's power to pay and continues to pile up deficits, it is on the road to bankruptcy.'

"These words are not mine. They were spoken by Candidate Roosevelt at Pittsburgh, four years ago."

"It is true, because 'taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors, because they are a burden on production. . . . If excessive, they are reflected in idle factories, tax-sold farms and in hordes of the hungry tramping the streets and seeking jobs in vain.'

"And those prophetic words are not

MAKING A VIRTUE OF RECKLESS SPENDING

"Of course, as a foreigner, he found ardent followers in this administration, although he had none in his own government. His formula was eagerly adopted, with one important change. The administration concluded that if our hundred million dollars a month for relief projects would be good medicine, six hundred million a month thrown around at random would be even better. So we started spending, not for the multitude of things we really needed, but for every conceivable thing. The lid was off. It is still off. We have been spending at the rate of six hundred million a month and more since."

"Four years ago the gross federal debt was $21,000,000,000. Today it is $34,000,000,000. Those are the facts. Instead of a decrease, we have had an enormous increase all along the line—an increase in spending, an increase in taxes, an increase in debt—all of which, as every housewife knows too well, have increased the cost of living."

"Just consider what this meant. It meant making a special virtue of spending for spending's sake. It meant saying to some eight hundred thousand government employees: 'Don't watch out for the resources of the government. Get rid of them as fast as possible.'

"What has been the result of this policy?" In the three and one-third years ending June 30 last, the federal government spent more than twenty-five billion dollars. This was more than all of the presidents of the United States from George Washington to Woodrow Wilson spent in 124 years.

"And what excuse does the President give for spending more than any previous president? Washington to Wilson? For ignoring the promises made at Washington four years ago—or perhaps we should say twenty-five billion dollars ago? Speaking last week at Pittsburgh he said: 'We had to balance the budget of the American people before we could balance the budget of the national government.' And then he added: 'That is the kind of recovery that we shall have—a real recovery—the kind of recovery that means re-employment. That, in turn, will not only reduce expenditures further, but will expand government income.'

"But I mean to balance the budget. And I am not going to take four years to do it. With a reduction in government expenditures, I am convinced there will be such a rebirth of confidence that we shall have a real recovery."

"Electron-ever repentance will not do. The give-me-another chance plea will not serve. No matter how sincere the good intentions of the present administration may be, they can never be translated into an effective program of economy."

GOVERNMENT COSTS

FIFTH OF INCOME

"The reason for this are obvious: an administration which starts public spending for spending's sake does not stop. It is an administration which creates a multitude of offices, which embarks on all manner of new ventures, which spends money to keep itself in power, dares not risk the angry votes that would result from economy."

"Today, various governments, federal, state and local, are taking, through taxation, almost 25 per cent of the national income. One-fifth of the average income of every man, woman and child in this country goes to the cost of government—one dollar out of every five."

"This is altogether too much. But even this is not the whole story. In addition, they are spending enormous sums obtained by borrowing. When this borrowing is added to what government takes from us in taxes, we find it is spending 30 per cent of the national income, or a dollar out of every six."

"In the matter of borrowing the federal government is the outstanding offender. For every dollar the federal government has received since March, 1933, it has spent two dollars. This is an appalling situation. It cannot be casually tossed aside—as the President did last week—with the explanation that the debts will be paid out of an increasing national income. When the government finances its costs by borrowing, it mortgages the future income of every family. And if it cannot recover, it must remain honest. Its debt has to be paid, and they have to be paid, not out of some impersonal fund known as 'national income,' but 'in the sweat of every man that labors.'

"We cannot—not place the burden upon our children. We must not let the nation, too, incur emergencies. We must make it possible for them to live their lives without having to pay for the financial follies of their parents."

ELEVEN MILLION MEN LEFT ON DOLE

"Every generation the necessary activities of society increase. This is inevitable because of the increasing complexity of civilization. Unless we watch carefully every penny we spend, unless we cut out every trace of waste and extravagance, these necessary activities are going to suffer. Every dollar that is spent foolishly means dollars lost for things that are necessary and wise."

"Let me quote once more the words of the President. In March, 1933, he said: 'Too often in recent history, liberal governments have been weakened on the rocks of loose fiscal policy.'

"He spoke truly. A loose fiscal policy—and that is certainly a polite term for what we have today—will wreck any government. It will wreck the government of the United States unless we stop it. We must put the spenders out."

"For a fact. Those who preach spending, practice spending, and brag about spending, cannot stop spending. This is the lesson of history. That is the record of this administration. They talk of it as though preserving the financial integrity of the United States were only a game."

"The American people know that it is more than a game—that our very existence depends upon keeping our financial house in order. But if the administration wants a base-ball analogy—if they want the score—it is easy to give. It is written clear across this program."

"Thirty-five billion dollars spent. Thirteen billion dollars added to the public debt."

TROPICAL STORM OFF YUCATAN COAST

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The following advisory was issued and distributed tonight by the Weather Bureau office here:

"Advisory—8:45 p. m. (Atlanta time). Tropical disturbance apparently forming short distance off west coast of Yucatan, central, 6 p. m. (Atlanta time), near Campeche, attended by only fresh shifting winds at present."

"At the present time we are spending for so-called relief at the rate of $3,500,000,000 a year, or $1,500,000,000 more than in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934. And still, in spite of all this spending, the administration has not returned its pledge to give every man on relief a job."

CAN BALANCE BUDGET BY ELIMINATING WASTE

"Now, obviously, there is something wrong here. Everybody knows what it is. A lot of the money spent in the name of relief has nothing to do with relief. And a lot of the money has been wasted."

"If I am elected there will be an end to this spending of relief funds for other purposes. There will be no more wholesale waste and extravagance. And there will be efficient administration of our public affairs. That is how the budget can be balanced—how it can be balanced without reducing by a single dollar the necessary payments to those actually in need."

"The federal government has become a vast sieve through which taxpayer money is being drained in constantly increasing volume."

"Never in the history of government has there been such profligate spending. Anybody at all familiar with what has been going on could almost count on the fingers of one hand foolish experiments the government could cut out and save at least billion dollars a month."

"The federal government has become a vast sieve through which taxpayer money is being drained in constantly increasing volume."

FOUR BRITISH AIRMEN
RESCUED FROM REEF

PORT DARWIN, Australia, Oct. 8.—Four British aviators, attempting a flight from Australia to England, were rescued today from the reef on which their plane crashed.

A wireless message said a fishing boat discovered the plane after the fliers had been on the reef two days. The airliner, owned by Lord Sempill, was abandoned and the men taken aboard a steamer.

Flight Lieutenant W. G. Lewis, W. G. Wood, Gilroy, Davies and Crombie, were said to have made a forced landing soon after taking off from here Tuesday night on the first leg of their flight, to Koepang, Timor.

Fox Brings Feature In 'My Man Godfrey'

Entertainment of high order is on view at the Fox theater, where "My Man Godfrey," starring William Powell and Carole Lombard, opened yesterday for a week's engagement.

Admirably cast and well directed, the film tells an engrossing story and is filled with laughs from start to finish.

Aiding the stars are Alice Brady, Alan Mowbray, Gail Patrick and Eugene Paulette, plus many others in minor roles, all of whom turn in sterling performances.

Miss Lombard deserves special praise for her work. In this film she reveals herself as a comedienne of great ability, and she carries off her "comedy lines" in exactly the right manner.

Powell, as Godfrey, the forgotten man who is rescued from his home on a city dump, to become the butler in the household of which Miss Lombard is one of two daughters, is excellent.

The dialogue is above the usual standard, and in the Hollywood fashion Eric Hatch, who wrote the book upon which the story was filmed, and Morton Rykind, who gave the entertainment world, among other things, "The I Sing," collaborate on the title.

Production of "Godfrey" is a picture you will regret not seeing.—L. R.

Artists' Models' Show Is Opened at Atlanta

Comedy skits and lines by Sam Micals and original dance numbers featuring King and King and another composed of Hooney and Beauville are the highlights of the week's bill, "Artists' Models," at the Atlanta theater.

The numerous skits, originated by Micals himself, include scenes elaborated from "Folies Bergeres" and "Streets of Paris" and make up the real treat of the program, a study in art in which members of the large chorus line gracefully take part.

Gladys Beauville stole the feature from the ladies of the stars, with her singing, dancing, while the other featured artists, Mabel White and Evelyn Cusheen, received their share of the applause.

Audiences who enjoy laughs will get a big kick out of this picture.

Beginning swiftly, the story gets under way when Powell finds himself in the principal position of a second-hand butler.

He tells the folks at the party what he thinks of them, before leaving, and it is then offered the butler's job.

He accepts, and finds himself in a household hardly conventional.

The nattiness of the group, however, furnishes the background for the laugh lines, and the story moves on, with a good love interest to keep up suspense.

Short subjects round out the bill in a satisfactory manner.—L. F.

New Paramount Film Is of 'Ladies in Love'

Behind the four walls of a woman's private boudoir strange emotions sometimes seek expression and throw light upon outward appearances.

Twentieth Century-Fox cameras have intruded into the sacred domains of four women and from the adventure they developed an insight into "Ladies in Love," current screen attraction at the Paramount.

To make realistic the pent-up emotions of a lady in love, a quartet of Hollywood favorite feminine personalities—all but one a veteran of many film romances—have been secured to play the ladies in Love. They are actressess Constance Bennett, Paul Lukas, Janet Gaynor and Simone Simon.

That they may have heart attractions to make them do their best, Paul Lukas, Don Amache, Tryone Power Jr. and Alan Mohr were enlisted to play opposite them.

The result—truly enjoyable suspense.

Centering around love affairs, the plot reveals one girl gambling with love and losing; one gambling with cupid and winning; one asking for love and receiving it; and love asking for the fourth—too late.

All the girls jealous of women in love, all the heart pangs and movements, are pictured in this insight behind a woman's mask. Acting honors go to Constance Bennett, Paul Lukas and Loretta Young.

Combined with news reel and shorts, "Ladies in Love" makes the Paramount's attraction one of the city's best this week.—A. R.

Dodsworth Launches Week's Run at Grand

Humorous and pathetic "Dodsworth," the story of two women fighting for a man who is battling to keep his self-respect, was unreel on the screen of Loew's Grand yesterday and proved to be one of the best shows filmdom has offered this season. The film again scored what will be a great hit.

Two cases of burglary were booked by police yesterday against Clarence R. Hart and William Melvin Kimball, who were arrested by detectives Thursday as they allegedly attempted to steal stolen hardware merchandise valued at $1,000. ## BIG INCREASE SHOWN IN U. S. BANK DEPOSITS most entirely" to new requirements rather than to a growth of deposits.

Devoting much of its report to a discussion of the recent monetary situation, the Financial Times of Great Britain and the United States, the board disclosed that $320,000 of gold was withdrawn from the Bank of France in the four weeks preceding the Gold From France.

Included in the film are some excellent shots of the maiden voyage of the Queen Mary. Especially realistic is the conduct of Huston on his first trip across the Atlantic.

Supporting these three are Paul Lukas, David Niven, Mme. Maria Ouspensky, Gregory Gaye, Wheeler, and Carole Lombard, and Sinclair Lewis and adapted for the screen and stage by Sidney Howard.

Miss Lombard deserves special praise for her work. In this film she reveals herself as a comedienne of great ability, and she carries off her "comedy lines" in exactly the right manner.

Playing the role of the sweet, understanding woman to the life he has given back to himself—is charming Mary Astor. In the few scenes she appears, Mary shows the heart of the "other woman" who must fight hard or give up the man she loves.

Supporting these three are Paul Lukas, David Niven, Mme. Maria Ouspensky, Gregory Gaye, Wheeler, and Carole Lombard, and Sinclair Lewis and adapted for the screen and stage by Sidney Howard.

1ST WARE CAPITAL WILL BE MARKED

Judge Jenkins To Speak at Waresboro Monument Unveiling.

WARESBORO, Ga., Oct. 9.—(P)—Judge W. Frank Jenkins, member of the Georgia court of appeals, will be one of the principal speakers here soon, when Ware county citizens unveil a monument marking the first site of their town.

A committee headed by Mayor J. J. Spence is making plans for the event and announced selection of Judge Jenkins, nominated without opposition in the September 3 primary for the supreme court.

Waresboro is a town of approximately 200 population, situated in the northwestern section of the county.

It was the seat of government of Ware county.

Local patriotic and civic bodies will take part in exercises incident to placing the marker.

Date for the unveiling is to be announced soon, the committee states.

DOUGLASVILLE RITES FOR FRANK MATTHEWS

DOUGLASVILLE, Ga., Oct. 9.—The body of Frank Lane Matthews, who died Monday in Toccoa, Ark., was returned yesterday, accompanied by his wife, Miss Salie Matthews, and funeral services were held this afternoon at the First Baptist church, of which he was a member.

He graduated at the local high school in 1923 and was a senior at Mercer University, Macon, when he health failed and he had to return to Toccoa to recuperate. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Matthews, prominent Douglas county citizens.

Besides his sister, he is survived by two brothers, G. C. and D. C. Matthews, all of Douglasville.

HEADS ROLL CALL

AMERICUS, Ga., Oct. 9.—(P)—The American Red Cross chapter re-elected Mrs. Charles F. Crisp chairman at a reorganization meeting. Mrs. Crisp said the local annual roll call will be held late in October or early November.

FOLLOWING THE RITUAL AND DRILL, A RECEPTION WAS HELD AT THE WOMAN'S CLUBHOUSE IN HONOR OF VISITING ALUMNI WHO ALSO WERE GUESTS OF THE CITY AND COLLEGE AT A BARBECUE IN THE COLLEGE GYMNASIUM. VISITORS WERE ALSO ENTERTAINED IN BARNESVILLE HOMES FOLLOWING THE BARBECUE.

SHAW OUTLINES KIWANIS AIM

ELECTION OF OFFICERS TODAY TO CLOSE ALBANY CONVENTION.

ALBANY, Ga., Oct. 9.—(P)—Joseph P. Shaw, of Atlanta, governor of Georgia Kiwanis Clubs, urged the state organization today to be on guard against Communism to help combat it and to work for a reduction in traffic accidents.

The Kawaniacs, in annual convention here, by amendment to the by-laws, changed the districting of the clubs of the state and created nine districts instead of the previous eight. The governor's banquet and ball, with an address by International Vice President James M. Lynch of Florida, were on the program tonight.

Officers for 1937 will be elected at the closing session tomorrow morning.

Hugh Carothers, of Winder; Dean Owner of Rome and I. W. Bountree of Swainsboro, are candidates for the office of governor, now held by Shaw.

ALLEN QUALIFIES.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 9.—(P)—Major Richard E. Allen Jr. qualified as a Democratic candidate for the mayoralty election November 4. "I don't expect much opposition," Allen said, "but if some person does wish to bolt the primary, we must be prepared to meet such opposition." Candidates have until November 4 to qualify for the election.

STATE DEATHS

RHODES BROWNE DIES

AT HOME IN COLUMBUS

Rites Will Be Held Sunday for Ex-Mayor and Prominent Business Leader.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Oct. 9.—(P)—Rhodes Browne, 71, banker and civic leader, died at his residence late last night after an illness of a week. Doctors said he suffered from bronchitis and heart ailment.

Browne, formerly mayor of the city and chairman of the board of county commissioners, died at his home October 15, 1885. He was the son of John Rhodes Browne and Roberta Harrison (Yonge) Browne, his father was a native of Taunton, Mass., and was prominent in business and financial circles there before moving here.

After leaving University.

Receiving his early education under noted tutors of that day, Browne entered the University of Georgia where he studied until his junior year. At 19, he left the university and entered the employ of the Georgia Home Insurance Company in Atlanta. In his Advancing through the various departments, he became vice president and held that position upon the death of his father, who was president, in 1900.

Browne then became president and continued in that post until he retired and was made chairman of the board.

Despite his wide business interests, political activities claimed Browne's attention prior to the time he retired as chairman of the county commission several years ago. He served as a member of the city water board and was mayor of the city from 1905 to 1911. Many improvements both in the city and county were sponsored by him.

ACTIVE CIVIC WORKER.

He was a member of the Trinity Episcopal church and was active in civic organization. He also owned a farm and dairy.

Survived by the widow, one daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Browne Hunt; a grandson, Weyman Strother Jr.; two sisters, Mrs. William B. Slade and Mrs. Laura B. McNulty; a great-granddaughter and several nieces and nephews.

FUNERAL SERVICES WILL BE HELD AT 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the Trinity Episcopal church. Dr. Harry G. Walker, rector, will conduct the rites.

BURNS TO DEATH

HILTONIA Farmer's Clothes Catch on Fire.

SYLVANIA, Ga., Oct. 9.—Veronica Daugherty, 25, prominent farmer living near Hiltonia in Screven county, was burned to death this morning when the fluid he was using in cleaning clothes ignited. He died instantly.

He is survived by his wife and several children.

KIN IDENTIFIES NEGRO WHO FELL OFF CHIMNEY

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Oct. 9.—(P)—A relative identified the negro who fell to death from a 102-foot smokestack here as Pinkie Frazier, of McLean, Ga.

The relative, who said he was J. E. Bings, a nephew, told officers he saw the story of Frazier's death in an Augusta newspaper. His uncle, Bings, died Saturday night, saying he was going to St. Louis. He said his uncle always appeared rational.

CHIANG CLAIMS RIGHT TO MAP NATION'S FATE

NANKING, Oct. 9.—(P)—China's military dictator, Chiang Kai-shek, proclaimed tonight China's ability to map her own destiny without foreign interference.

Speaking on the eve of the nation's 25th anniversary as a republic, and beset by critical differences with Japan over recent alleged anti-Japanese terrorism by Chinese, Chiang demanded for China the chance to carry out his own program "uninterrupted and unembarrassed."

"China," Chiang declared, "is capable of doing great deeds and by her own efforts wiping out the destructive forces of militarism, promoting the welfare of her people and setting her own house in order."

NET DEBT IS LOWER

The fallacy of the Republican claim that an overpowering debt on the people of the country has resulted from the recovery and relief spending of the Roosevelt administration is emphasized by Governor Earle, of Pennsylvania, in a recent speech in the statement that "the plain fact is that the total debt of our people, of all kinds, is less now than it was when President Roosevelt assumed office—and less than it was at the peak of the boom in 1929."

Holding that the Republican party "cannot deny its responsibility for the depression nor can it cheat President Roosevelt of the credit for restoring prosperity," Governor Earle further feels that "every effort has been made by the Republican leaders to instill the fear that economic recovery is costing too much, and, if possible, to stampede the American people into another panic."

Unquestionably the economic status of the average American citizen is far better, so far as the balance of his assets and debts are concerned, than at any time during the Hoover administration. During the days of synthetic prosperity, debts, both individual and governmental, piled up, and with the coming of depression the debts largely remained while the value of all assets tumbled to a fraction of former figures.

Now these values have been re-created by the policies of the Roosevelt administration, while the debts have been steadily liquidated. Governmental debt has mounted, but not in degree comparable to the volume of the decrease in all other debts.

Governor Earle is, therefore, entirely right in his spirited statement that the total debt of the people, of all kinds, is comparatively far less than under the Republican regimes. In addition, the debts now existing can be easily and safely carried under the new impetus that has been given to industry, trade and agriculture.

In a recent statement, Clarke Sinsabaugh & Company, of New York, nationally known and conservative investment counsel firm, holds that the present debt structure, despite the increases of recent years, is entirely manageable and the federal credit, unless subjected to further large increases, will remain sound.

The firm's conclusion is based on an extensive study of public finances and the conviction that continued recovery will make the debt burden steadily more bearable. In voicing the expectation that deficits in the national accounts will gradually diminish during the next few years, it is cited that governmental receipts of "about four billion dollars in 1930 declined to approximately 2.1 billion in 1932, subsequently recovering to 3.8 billion in 1935, to 4.1 billion in 1936 and for 1937 are estimated at about 5.6 billion dollars."

The financial condition of no other government in the world is sounder than that of the United States, and there is still a safe margin before the danger point of federal credit is reached. The repeated efforts of the Republicans to make it appear that the national credit is suffering is, as termed by President Roosevelt, another campaign "red herring."

AN UNNECESSARY PERIL

Georgia is annually spending millions of dollars on the construction and maintenance of paved highways to make motor transport between the cities and towns of the state more convenient and comfortable—and yet a condition is permitted to exist that makes use of the public thoroughfares a constant danger to life and property.

Especially in those sections of the state where cattle raising is beginning to follow on a large scale, cows are allowed to graze along the edges of paved roads, and frequently are to be found asleep on the highway at night. The same thing is true of hogs and other farm animals.

The tragic death of William Candler when the automobile he was driving overturned in south Georgia after striking a cow on the highway, is a tragic illustration of the risk that is constantly present for the autoist from the presence of animals on paved highways. This accident, depriving Atlanta and Georgia of a valuable and constructive citizen, would not have occurred if the state had the proper laws for keeping animals from the thoroughfares built to accommodate the traffic flowing between its different sections and communities.

Only a few weeks ago a well-known citizen of Savannah was killed when his car struck a cow on a rural highway near that city. Scarcely a week passes that such an accident is not reported, and those traversing the highways of the state can vouch for the fact that there are daily innumerable narrow escapes from serious accidents when motorists are often forced to drive their cars off the paving to avoid hitting an animal.

Some Georgia counties require that cattle and other farm animals be fenced in. Other counties, seemingly blind to the danger to life and property involved, permit such animals to wander at will.

Every possible step should be taken to lessen the tragic toll of the highways and certainly the removal of livestock from the paved thoroughfares, involving no unreasonable hardship on the owners of the animals, should be assured by action either by the state government or by the counties.

THE HELPFUL MAHATMA

Dr. F. E. Townsend, mahatma of the Utopian old age pension plan, announces that he will support Governor Alf Landon for president; this despite the fact that a few weeks ago he entered into a pact with Father Coughlin and Gerald L. K. Smith to stump the nation for William Lemke's Union party.

James A. Farley, chairman of the national Democratic committee, characterized the announcement as unimportant, while Representative Joseph W. Martin, eastern Republican campaign manager, enthused to the point of declaring that it would be very helpful to the Republican cause, in that it would not only bring votes for Landon in California, but would be felt in Ohio and other eastern states.

The Republicans, looking for votes, and needing them badly, are apparently willing to accept the support of any "crackpot" mahatma and his group of dupes, irrespective of what they advocate. Father Coughlin is still friendly to Lemke, but inasmuch as Townsend has switched to Landon, are we to see Gerald Smith following his lead?

On hearing that some Communists and Socialists favored the re-election of Roosevelt, and would support him instead of the nominees of their respective parties, the Republican campaign management attempted to create a new campaign issue.

The charge was promptly and courageously met by the President when he publicly declared: "I have not sought, I do not seek, I repudiate the support of any advocate of Communism, or of any other alien 'ism' which would by fair means or foul, change our American democracy."

The Democrats could make a big to-do over this Republican welcome to Townsend support, but they are content to let the millstone do its own deadly work.

Nugus Hopes

For Best.

In one of the very few public pronouncements he made since his precipitate flight from Addis Ababa, Emperor Haile Selassie said the other day in Geneva: "I am certain that I will not die in exile, but in my own country, Ethiopia will not always, nor for very long, remain under Italian rule. There will be a general European war next year in which Italy will be defeated and fully compelled to withdraw. That will give us an opportunity to regain our independence."

Hope never dies and the Nugus is, of course, permitted to speculate on the difficulties which Italy will experience if she really became involved in a world-conflict. That next year is not the critical period for Europe is not divided either. German expansionism reaches its apex in midwinter, 1937. Hitler has just said in the plenitude of the Nazi party's congress at Nuremberg that with the Urals, the Caucasus and the Ukraine in his possession he would be swimming in plenty, whereas now Germany has to fight for her existence.

Both guesses were low and outside. The trip is not a campaign swing at all, but an exhibition tour. The President's associates were angry and dissatisfied with the way it finally developed. One of them remarked as the train pulled out of the station:

"One thing is missing. We should have a flat car with a whale on it."

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY PAUL MALLON.

WHALE SHOW WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—President Roosevelt's current campaign trip is unique. No presidential candidate ever made one like it. For one thing, it calls for more intensive travel than Mr. Hoover's last desperate bid in 1932. But what is more significant, the President felt that what he would say, not be sufficiently important to warrant arranging a national radio hook-up, except at two of the dozens of places he intended to stop. He made advance broadcasting arrangements only for Omaha and Chicago. His itinerary called for stops of only an hour and a half in most of the large cities to be visited, and the usual overnight rests were omitted.

Doubters here ran around in circles when they heard about it. They could not make out whether the President had become desperate or whether he was just trying to tire himself into an illness by meaningless overexertion.

Both guesses were low and outside. The trip is not a campaign swing at all, but an exhibition tour. The President's associates were angry and dissatisfied with the way it finally developed. One of them remarked as the train pulled out of the station:

"One thing is missing. We should have a flat car with a whale on it."

DEMANDS What happened was this: The President had arranged a moderate tour for the two speeches in which he expected to have something to say. The railroad schedule was secretly worked out five days before the departure date. But a smart newsman got hold of it and published it far and wide. Then the fun began at the White House.

State leaders and even precinct committeemen along the route started telephoning and wiring Mr. Roosevelt, Farley, congressmen and everyone they knew in Washington. They fumed and threatened, saying he was sure to lose their localities if he did not stop and at least have his picture taken with them. Some convinced him that he would have to go off on his planned itinerary. By the time he got through saying yes, his railroad schedule looked like a dozen pretzels headed on a table.

PRESSURE For example, Minnesota leaders insisted that he help them in their precarious situation by coming up and promoting enthusiasm. There seemed to be some sense in that, but as soon as he accepted St. Paul, he opened up about 800 miles more of itinerary, and the way stations were immediately closed.

Kansas was not on the original route either. But its inclusion cannot be blamed on any precinct committeemen, at least not directly. The story goes that Chairman Farley has long had a belief that he can carry Kansas. The more people laugh at him, the more convinced he becomes. His friends say he has a dollar bet on it, but that is probably just Democratic propaganda. At any rate, Mr. Farley is the one who convinced Mr. Roosevelt that he should go through Kansas.

The climax was not reached, however, until the President was leaving his desk for his train. In rushed a Michigan roads commission which induced him to add a 15-minute stop for Pontiac.

Note—it was Mr. Hoover who is supposed to have observed, after returning to his campaign car from a long and tedious back platform appearance at a train stop: "The things a man has to do to run for the presidency!"

STABILIZATION All the gentlemen in Mr. Morgenthau's gentlemen's agreement on monetary matters may still be gentlemen, but there is a growing belief in unofficial monetary quarters here that the pound will decline in long-range value.

British sources are said to believe a $4.50 pound would be nearer right than the current $4.89. Of course, they are talking in terms of six months or a year. If they really think that way, there is little Mr. Morgenthau can do.

The only thing certain, however, is that the stabilization agreement is not a stabilization agreement, but a temporary "if" arrangement to cover the current situation.

Equally certain is that, if the British are right, the Russians were not very stupid in getting Mr. Morgenthau to buy their pounds at the price they received.

SAFE BET The hint from the White House that Mr. Roosevelt may seek continuance of his devaluing powers was an advance feeler for a foregone conclusion. Until a definite and permanent stabilization can be effected, there is no other way to safeguard the dollar against excessive foreign devaluations.

ICKES PICTURES LEMKE AS COUGHLIN 'STOOGE'

Interior Secretary Charges G. O. P. and Radio Priest Are Co-operating.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Saying there is "friendly co-operation" between the Republicans and the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Secretary Ickes told the Good Neighbor conference tonight that "Lemke is only a Father Coughlin-Landon stooge."

He referred to Representative William Lemke, presidential candidate of the Union party, being supported by Father Coughlin.

Ickes named William Hard, radio commentator for the Republican national committee, as a "radio officer" between the Republicans and Father Coughlin and the Lemke forces. He quoted from a letter which he said Hard had written Gardner Jackson, a Washington correspondent, asking Jackson whether he would do some writing for a new magazine published by the Detroit radio station.

The concluding quotation was: "The magazine begins coming out in March. It may have a lot of influence on the politics of this year."

In other words," Ickes commented, "since Father Coughlin through his magazine would be waging a temperate fight against President Roosevelt, the Republican candidate for president would be benefited. To the credit of Mr. Hard let it be said that he rejected Mr. Hard's offer on behalf of Father Coughlin because he could not in good conscience support the Fascist ideals of that gentleman."

Common Objective. Ickes said he was not charging Father Coughlin with "selling out" to the Republicans, but "that there is a community of interest, a common objective."

"It is conceived to be the better strategy on the part of the vulnerable Father Coughlin to pretend to be for Lemke," Ickes said. He added he had been informed that the Republican national committee spent about $1,000 to decorate the Des Moines convention, which Father Coughlin spoke on September 10.

Turning to Alfred E. Smith's defection from the Democratic ticket, Ickes quoted:

"Just for a handful of silver he left us."

"Just for a riband to stick in his coat."

He argued that the New Deal served the masses against what he called "this array of pomp and power" addressed by Smith in New York last week.

Privileged Group.

"The very fact that Landon and Colonel Frank Knox and Smith are so violent in denouncing the raising of a so-called class issue," he said, "tends to prove that they and the small but privileged group whom they represent and whose interests they serve, have no intention of remedying conditions."

Using a football simile, he said:

"In the backfield we see Governor Landon, light and inexperienced, but within, a clever dodger, who is hard to pin down; Herbert Hoover, back on the gridiron after an enforced stay on the bench for four years; Father Coughlin, the great triple threat, who does the kicking for the team, and Al Smith, one-time 'All-American,' now turned professional. The ends are Frank Knox and John Hamilton."

"From tackle to tackle crouch the well-known duPont brothers—Pierre, Samuel, A. Felix, Irene and Henry. William Randolph Hearst, coach through a megaphone, calls signals from the sidelines. The string of substitutes contains some notable names—Mellon, Mills, Rockefeller, Pew, Aldrich, Grundy, Pinchot, Lemke, as well as an assortment of Liberty Leaguers of high and low degree. The Republican voice of the air, William Hard occupies the dual role of water boy and cheer leader."

"The common interest holds together this queer combination in honor of Roosevelt."

LANDON LEADERSHIP IS ATTACKED BY COX

Former Ohio Governor Describes Hearst 'Trumpeter of Terror.'

DAYTON, Ohio, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Former Governor James M. Cox, of Ohio, the Democratic party's standard-bearer in 1920, declared tonight "we would have a leaderless government" if President Roosevelt is defeated for re-election.

The Republican party and candidate, attacking President Roosevelt for his leadership, commit themselves to a president who will make no effort to lead, but will make his recommendations and stop with that," Cox said in a speech at a Democratic rally here tonight.

Ohio's former chief executive also described William Randolph Hearst, publisher, as the "trumpeter of terror."

It was the former presidential candidate's first 1936 campaign address on behalf of Mr. Roosevelt, who ran vice president with Cox 16 years ago. Dayton Mayor Alf M. Landon, of Kansas, the Republican presidential candidate.

"The Republican candidate would turn social security over to the states," Cox declared, "a move he described as 'a favorite tory barrier to an honest victory.' Other results of Republican victory, Cox said, would be 'mass discontent,' a government 'divided against itself,' and unsound tariff policies.

A fair campaign, Cox said at the outset of his address, would answer the oft-recurring question: Can a Democratic form of government suffice in times of emergency?

"This campaign," he continued, "would have taken on more of this clarifying aspect if the opposition had come into it with a program, rather than a scare."

"The platform prelude: 'America is in peril'—words more properly spoken to timid children in the dark," with Mr. Hearst, the "trumpeter of terror," does not impress. It voices a reversal of the honored traditions of the party of McKinley."

GEM AND CASH THEFTS REPORTED TO POLICE

Disappearance of $375 worth of jewels and $65 cash within the last few days was reported to police yesterday.

Mrs. W. D. Rhineberger, of 1487 South Gordon street, said a platinum brooch, studded with 15 diamonds and several emeralds, valued at $300, and a white gold pendant valued at $75 disappeared from her home during last night.

Charles Steinberg, of 50-A South Pryor street, told police someone entered his window early yesterday morning and escaped with $65 taken from his trouser pocket.

MISSING TRUCK FOUND, DRIVER, MONEY GONE

A truck loaded with drugs, property of the Atlanta Economic Company, was being held yesterday by police as they endeavored to locate William Tate, negro truck driver, who left the store Thursday noon with the truck and $3,500 for bank deposit and has not been heard from since.

When the negro failed to return last night, police started to look for him. The truck was found abandoned yesterday at the corner of Walton and Fair streets. All the drugs and sundries were recovered.

CHOSEN TO HEAD BROWN.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 9.—(UPI)—Dr. Herbert W. Walker, president of Providence College at Attleboro, Wis., tonight was named president of Brown University, succeeding Dr. Clarence A. Barbour, who announced he would retire at the end of the present semester on the advice of physicians.

FRICK TRIAL HALTED; CHECK TRAIL TRACED

A week-end pause in the trial of Harvey F. Frick was announced yesterday in federal district court, as jury was dismissed to reassemble Monday morning.

Frick, chief clerk at Atlanta federal penitentiary for 25 years, is charged with falsifying accounts at that institution. The government is contending Frick "kited" checks to cover up an alleged shortage of approximately $8,000.

Utilities Commission Member Not Consulted on Organization, He Says.

James A. Perry, member-nominee of the Georgia Public Service Commission, yesterday issued a statement declaring he took no part in the conferees said to have resulted in the selection of Commissioner Walter R. McDonald, of Augusta, as the new chairman of the body.

It was revealed several days ago that Mr. McDonald, Matt L. McWhorter of Lexington, and Perry T. Knight, of Valdosta, had agreed on the selection of the former.

In his statement yesterday, Perry said:

"Several have presumed I knew about the purported reorganization, if not taking part in it. The first information that I had on the subject came when I read it in The Constitution. It is my understanding that the present chairman is serving a term of two years, fixed by statute, and does not expire until July, 1937."

"I am not committed on any part of my work in organizing the commission to permit it to part in it, or the discharge of any official duty, and will not be until I go into office.

TAX DODGERS WARNED TO FILE RETURNS NOW

Tax dodgers will be given their day in court after October 15, tax assessors said yesterday. Those convicted of failure to file returns are subject to fines of $50 or 20 days in jail, either or both, at the discretion of the recorder.

The warning to make returns immediately was sounded yesterday by Joe C. Little and Leo Suddeth, assessors. They cited provisions of the law regarding the filing of returns and asserted the department proposes to invoke the law in its drive against those who neglect to make returns.

NOTED SPEAKER TALKS ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Application of Creed's Tenets to Every-Day Life Is Outlined.

James G. Rowell, C. S. B., of Kansas City, Mo., member of the board of lectureship of The Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., delivered a lecture on Christian Science, "The Gospel of a Supreme Affection for Good," in the auditorium of First Church of Christ, Scientist, held last night. He was introduced by Harry C. Moore.

The lecture part follows:

Christian Science, created God, divine mind, is the only creator, and that His creation is like Him; that is, spiritual, harmonious, and eternal, the kingdom of heaven. It reveals that the human mind, the supposed ruler of the kingdom of this world, is not an original, but merely counterfeits the creation of the perfect, divine mind; and that every material object and concept, every "cherished" belief and practice (Science and Health, p 141), is but a counterfeit or an opposite, a dream, a perverted sense of some real, eternal truth. Christian Science shows the way whereby false, distorted mortal beliefs or concepts may be translated back into their better originals; in other words, Christian Science shows the way by which mortals may exchange their fleeting, false and suffering conception for the abiding, immortal, divine intelligence.

Spiritual Solutions.

Christian Science brings to light the fact that there is a spiritual supply present for every human need, a solution through spiritual understanding for every conceivable problem; in other words, a divine law present and available for all who strive to understand it. From the heart, Mrs. Eddy learned that she had but one real need all her life, and that was to understand spiritually the nature of God and His availability to mankind through His laws. She saw that the answer to this one great need had met all her needs and would meet all the needs of others.

Therefore, Eddy set herself the task of revealing to all mankind the nature of God and His ever-operative laws, and of explaining just how the individual may consciously and scientifically benefit by their operation. These revealed laws of God Mrs. Eddy named Christian Science.

Laws Tested, Verified.

Many years later, after she had tested and verified them, Mrs. Eddy gave these laws to the world in her book, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," a textbook of Christian Science. In this book are found, on every page, careful, scientific rules which, when understood, obeyed, and practiced, bring most desirable results; better morals, better health, better business, happier and more useful lives.

Let us open this book. Gratitude compels us to do it reverently, for through the truths contained within its covers men and women have been restored to purity and health, businesses have been re-established on the basis of service to mankind, broken homes have been made happy again, and life has been made worth living to thousands of fallen, failing creatures.

The study of this book: own it, read it, use it, you will realize more and more how precious it is. Study it in connection with the Book of books, the Bible; practice what you learn in your study. The truth these two books contain will meet your human need.

Rules To Practice.

Let us turn, for instance, to page 246 of Science and Health. Remember, we are looking for rules to follow in practice. We refer to Material Laws, the spiritual laws of the universe. In this book are found rules for spiritual understanding. Here we have a most important rule for solving our problems.

On page 201 of the same book, beginning with line 17, we find: "The way to extract error from mortal mind is to point in truth through wisdom. Now, N. Y. is led to do just what we are told to do. We must follow our rule carefully. Let us seek the specific truth with which to replace the lie we may be entertaining. This truth may be found by reversing the lie which has deceived us. On page 120 we find 'science reveals the law of Mind, of physical senses, and by this reversal mortals arrive at the fundamental facts of being.' The truth we have found, made strong with divine love, will heal us. But if we do not find our freedom instantly, let us follow the rule given on page 417: 'Maintain the act of practice. Christian Science is God, and therefore cannot be sick; that what is termed matter cannot be sick; that all causation is Mind, acting through spiritual law. Then hold your ground with the unshaken understanding of Truth and Love, and you will win.'

In his statement yesterday, Perry said:

"I have stored in the Atlanta Constitution, copy of the information that the Georgia Public Service Commission has, in part, been reorganized, carries statements that have confused many who have called it to my attention."

"Several have presumed I knew about the purported reorganization, if not taking part in it. The first information that I had on the subject came when I read it in The Constitution. It is my understanding that the present chairman is serving a term of two years, fixed by statute, and does not expire until July, 1937."

"I am not committed on any part of my work in organizing the commission to permit it to part in it, or the discharge of any official duty, and will not be until I go into office.

THE RETURN OF JOAN

BY JOSEPH McCORD

INSTALLMENT XXXVI.

He walked along the hall until he came to the first Elledge door. It was the one Sloan had opened the day of Deeds' McCune's first call. And it was Sloan Elledge who answered his subdued rapping.

"Well, Mr. McCune," was his quiet greeting. "Can I speak to John?" His voice died when he closed the door after Deeds without moving from his place. The caller was staring in some perplexity at John who emerged from the adjoining room, his arms filled with freshly laundered shirts.

"I hope I'm not disturbing you gentlemen," Deeds said, slowly.

"There's little danger . . . after what has happened today, John observed with a doleful wane of his usual head. He deposited his laundry on the floor. "As a matter of fact, we are preparing to leave here for a time, McCune. I wouldn't have had Sloan subjected to this shock for a great deal . . . I'm not really sure it will be wise for us to come back."

"I was wondering the same thing," Deeds observed shortly. He turned to face Sloan. "That's what I came here to find."

A slight smile appeared on Sloan's lean face. He reached out and turned the key, slipped it from the lock and dropped it into his pocket.

"Then I suggest that we talk quietly . . . and without any interruption," he suggested mildly. "Just what have you in mind?"

"I'd like to tell you that I think there are a lot of things that need explanation . . . about you two. Some queer things have happened since our talk about that letter from my newspaper friend." Deeds decided to make a shot in the dark. "Perhaps it will simplify matters a little if I tell you that I received another letter today. On it, it was written, 'John, I am sorry to see John move nearer with an inquiring look on his fat face. 'This one was written by Gene Gaston. Very soon before his untimely . . ."

"Oh, but wait!" Sloan rarely raised his voice. "There's no need of becoming impudent. Really. After all, he is a house of mourning. You know. We must control ourselves." He leaned against the door and looked steadily at Deeds.

"I believe I told you that we were leaving here soon. In fact, we are leaving today. Perhaps I should tell you that the car Gaston was using is mine. I only mention it so that you won't raise any righteous hue and cry."

"I'd had hoped that you would see the wisdom of attending strictly to your own business. You haven't. You are leaving us, I'm afraid, with but one alternative. I see nothing to do but take you with us. That may necessitate putting off our departure until night."

"That a laugh. Think I'll go?"

"Oh yes, I sure will. In fact, it will depend largely upon yourself."

"McCune, that was my custom to do. Not just sometimes, but always. You are proving to be rather astute . . ."

"What do you think?"

"I am greatly interested."

"Does it interest you to know that he told me he was on a spot? That his number was up? Or that he planned to do away with himself . . . only he wasn't sure he'd be given a chance?" Deeds guessed you are one of two who knows if he got his chance. You were there on the ground. Or in the water, rather."

"And so what?"

"That's what I'm going to find out. If you think we had some agreement, it's off. No holds barred."

"You mean you've forgotten what I told you?"

"Not at all. I might have known that ace in the hole was as phony as."

AUNT HET
BY ROBERT QUILLIN.

Deeds never knew what happened that next minute. Sloan feinted, and then he was on him. Both of them. It must have missed by a mile. Then two hands darted out and caught Deeds' throat in a clutch that caused his eyes to start from his head. No chance to cry out. He couldn't breathe. With both hands he tore frantically at Elledge's wrists. They are like steel.

Objects in the room became dim. There was a roaring in his ears. Then through it, strange voices.

"That will do, Doctor . . . Phlohe."

Deeds McCune staggered to the nearest walk and leaned weakly against it, pulling mechanically at his shirt collar. He took gulps of air into his tortured lungs, conscious of feeling excessively sick at his stomach. As his vision cleared, he discovered that Rev. Mr. Beckham was in the room. He was standing with his back to that locked door.

Where the devil had he come from?

Something of the sort must have occurred to Sloan Elledge.

"How did you get in here?" he rasped menacingly.

"You made it possible by being thoughtful enough to remove the key," the little minister explained mildly. "It almost took me too long, as it was. Wait. Wait."

Deeds saw his hand flick under the lapel of the linen coat he wore. When it came out, a snub-nosed automatic was pointed steadily at Sloan Elledge.

"Now, then Doctor Phlohe . . . I know you to be reasonable. As you just reminded McCune, this is a house of mourning. If you will be good enough to stand over there beside the window and keep those active hands of yours where I can see them . . . you, too, John. That's better. Are you all right now, McCune?"

"I . . . I guess so," Deeds stammered. His eyes were riveted on the gun.

"I'm so sorry it happened as it did. I seem to have been just about one up all day," Deeds apologized. "I see you are a widow, you know. We must control ourselves." He leaned against the door and looked steadily at Deeds.

"I believe I told you that we were leaving here soon. In fact, we are leaving today. Perhaps I should tell you that the car Gaston was using is mine. I only mention it so that you won't raise any righteous hue and cry."

they lived in rivers and lakes as well as seas. Myths about them grew up in Europe during the Middle Ages, and many poems speak of them. Tennyson wrote:

"I would sing to myself the whole day; with a comb of pearl, I would comb my hair."

A mermaid usually is pictured with long, beautiful hair, the upper part of the body being that of a woman, the lower part that of a fish. Such a creature would be very interesting, indeed, but none ever has been captured! The myth very likely came from sailors who, in their travels, saw seals swimming at the surface and carrying with them long sea-weed, fancied to be the hair of a woman.

In ancient times, Greek sailors told about nymphs and sirens. These sirens were supposed to live around an island, but instead of having fish-tails they were said to have the bodies of birds, with the faces of women. Modern artists sometimes picture sirens the same as they would mermaids.

OUTPOSTS OF MADRID CRUMPLED BY REBELS

points in the city, ready to quell any outbreaks of panic, and pedestrian traffic was banned in the Puente Del Sol—the "Times Square" of Madrid—from 11 p. m. until dawn.

Government officials maintained a cheerful tone, despite the stream of disheartening reports. They confidently predicted the Soviet ultimatum would "break" the Fascist drive by cutting off their outside source of war supplies.

Opinion here, however, discounted any threat of World War in the Soviet action. Russian plain speaking, it was felt, "call the bluff of international Fascism—the real war threat," and avert, rather than threaten, the possibility of an international conflict.

Despite the insurgent menace of Madrid itself, inhabitants of the capital took heart from reports of government victories on the far northern front.

Another Irua at Oviedo.

Government troops were reported to have captured Oviedo, strategic city on the flaming 120-mile Bay of Biscay front, after bitter hand-to-hand fighting through the streets.

Squads of Asturian "dynamiteros"—dynamite-throwing miners—were declared to have penetrated the San Lazaro district within the provincial capitol and have seized the Naranco section which contains the city hall.

Flames resulting from the blasts of dynamite hurled by the Asturians roared through the town, and it was believed Oviedo may be doomed to a fate similar to that of the fire-gutted city of Irua.

Hard around Madrid, retreating government troops took up new positions in the west, some six to ten miles nearer the capital than the positions they abandoned yesterday.

Coincidently, the loss of Navalperal and Madrid's Valdeiglesias compelled the hard-pressed Socialists to dig in on a new western front, 25 miles from Madrid's eastern front.

Charge Argentine Aid.

New charges of Fascist aid to the insurgents were aired by the Madrid newspaper Politica, which asserted that Argentine Fascists had been transported to Spain in German ships to fight against the Madrid government.

The German liner General Artigas, the German ship that had landed both food and war materials for the insurgents at Corunna.

The newspaper quoted Pedro Ferrer, a refugee from the Balearics, as saying that two Italian destroyers, discovering that the Island of Ibiza had been deserted by the government, escorted the Insurgent freighter Ciudad de Palma into port, accompanied by two tri-masted Italian steamers.

Ferrer asserted the ship landed 1,000 men, including 300 soldiers, and that a field mass was celebrated in the presence of "Count Rossi," the Italian blackshirt chief.

The newspaper also declared citizens of Corunna had witnessed the landing of war materials by German ships and that several government supporters of Ibiza, including a Lieutenant Telle, had been shot by an Insurgent landing party.

Portuguese Leaves.

Lord Plymouth, presiding, attempted to save the situation by expressing hope that the Portuguese delegate would return for the afternoon session.

"My statement is quite clear," Calheiros replied crisply, and stalked from the meeting.

Five minutes later Lord Plymouth adjourned the session and followed Calheiros, who remained in the former office closest with Lord Plymouth, who attempted to prevent Portugal bolting.

The incident was preceded by an Anglo-Italian verbal duel. When the meeting opened, Lord Plymouth presented Spain's memorandum of September 15—charging violation of the nonintervention pact.

Calheiros immediately denounced the accusations of "Spain's Socialist-Communist government" and attempted to answer Spain's charges point by point. Grandi tried to prove that most of the shipments of war materials to Spanish rebels before Italy imposed its arms embargo.

Grandi then attacked Britain, charging British subjects had joined the attack centered toward Aranjuez, south by east of the capital, where the Fascists fought to cut rail communications between Madrid and Alicante.

Government leaders would attempt to flee to Alicante should Madrid be captured, but the Spanish army was arrested in Madrid as police continued a campaign to purge the capital of all persons believed to have Fascist sympathies. Among those arrested were Lieutenant Colonel Jose Ortega Molina, General Gutierrez Valdelacara, and Luis Nieto Antunez, an employee of the ministry of industry.

BOMB ALL RED CITIES, IS FASCIST ORDER.

BURGOS, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Insurgent military high command tonight ordered warplane pilots to bomb all the principal government strongholds, leaving land forces free for a concentrated Madrid attack.

Fascist airmen immediately took off for Madrid and Alicante and other Spanish cities remote from the Madrid battle line.

During previous air raids, the Insurgent pilots declared their bombs had caused heavy damage in Barcelona and Valencia and Malaga.

The Insurgent mechanized land forces continued their flane operations in efforts to strangle Madrid.

The attack centered toward Aranjuez, south by east of the capital, where the Fascists fought to cut rail communications between Madrid and Alicante.

Government leaders would attempt to flee to Alicante should Madrid be captured, but the Spanish army was arrested in Madrid as police continued a campaign to purge the capital of all persons believed to have Fascist sympathies. Among those arrested were Lieutenant Colonel Jose Ortega Molina, General Gutierrez Valdelacara, and Luis Nieto Antunez, an employee of the ministry of industry.

Union of Armies Near.

Cavalry units cut away chunks of the government defenders who fell behind the retreat.

Artillery, outstripped on most fronts by the speed of the Fascist advance, rumbled along at night, their crews sweating to bring the guns within range of Madrid's towers.

The carefully planned union of the northern and southern wings of the Fascist armies tonight was but a matter of hours.

San Martin de Valdeiglesias, toward which both wings were moving, fell to the troops of General Emiliano Mola, northern commander and the conqueror of Irua and San Sebastian.

The advance units of General Francisco Franco's forces in the south tonight were in a forced march toward Mola's men and were less than eight miles from their rendezvous.

The ever-changing Fascist lines grasping at Madrid tonight snaked along from an area about 40 miles due north of Madrid down southwest to San Martin, which is between 35 and 40 miles due west of Madrid.

From that point the line jutted sharply back east for about 10 miles and then bent eastward in a bold sweep across country to Torrejon, due south of Madrid.

Fingers of the northern and southern termini of the Fascist line stretched out east, seeking to bend around toward each other, thus crunching Madrid from all sides.

Fascist leaders tonight confidently predicted their men would be swattered in the streets of Madrid within a week.

With San Martin captured, they said, the march on Madrid was as good as accomplished.

Russian Unpopular.

Kagan indignantly denied Grandi's charge that the Soviet note was political extortion against the other powers or that Russian ships had carried arms to Spain to aid in the revolution.

Russia's charges, sounding accusations made earlier by Spain, ranged from the purported delivery in Seville, by way of Portugal, of 23 carloads of dismantled airplanes shipped from Hamburg, Germany; the arrival of 12 German planes at Spain; the arrival of 12 German planes at Spain; the alleged shipment to Insurgents by way of Lisbon of machine guns and poison gas of Italian origin, and the abundant supply of Italian and German bombers with Rebel armies.

Kagan was unsmiling, fully aware he was not in a position with the committee. He is 45, clean-shaven and once was the chief censor for the Foreign Press in Moscow.

The stormy morning session was climaxed when Calheiros rose and announced that although lacking instructions from Lisbon, he desired to say that a complaint directed against Spain might be brought by government—namely Russia—with whom Portugal does not maintain relations, "must be considered an act of hostility."

He announced that under these circumstances he must refuse to participate in the discussions until instructed by his government.

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR 'JOE' ALEXANDER

Fraternity brothers and fellow students paid tribute to Joseph (Joe) Frank Alexander Jr., prominent Georgia Tech senior, at funeral services at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son.

Drs. W. W. Memminger and W. A. Shelton officiated. Burial will be in Dalton, where the body will be taken by motor.

Alexander, who was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Frank Alexander Sr., of 1302 Piedmont avenue, N. E., died Thursday afternoon at a private hospital, following an attack of scarlet fever.

He was editor of the Georgia Tech "Technique," and active in many other campus affairs. He was a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

He declared he was not in the restaurant when the raid was made early this year by city officers, and that if whisky was being sold it was without his permission.

Judge John D. Humphries, in Fulton criminal court, yesterday had under consideration Sam Dardarian's plea for conviction of possessing liquor.

Dardarian, operator of Harvey's restaurant and tap room on Luckie street, was found guilty in Judge Jesse M. Wood's court of violation of Prohibition laws, and was fined $500 or 12 months.

Dardarian appealed on the grounds that the criminal court judge's charge to the jury was improper so far as it pertained to circumstantial evidence.

He declared he was not in the restaurant when the raid was made early this year by city officers, and that if whisky was being sold it was without his permission.

The restaurant man was arrested a second time by Fulton deputies last Saturday, when a small quantity of liquor was found under the bar of his tap room. An employee also was taken into custody.

Judge Humphries, after hearing the celeriori appeal yesterday, took the matter under consideration and said he would read the text of the evidence before making a decision.

STEPFATHER ARRESTED FOR CHAINING UP SON

10-Year-Old Boy Forced To Wear Heavy Log Chain to School.

FINDLAY, Ohio, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Undersized, 10-year-old Robert Leucht, "his eyes red with fright; made his laborious way to school today, dragging a 15-foot log chain padlocked around his neck.

Police arrested the child's stepfather, William P. Leeth, and Probate Judge Paul Capell jailed him for investigation. Leeth told the judge he chained Robert to the kitchen stove last night because the boy "ran away."

School officials said the child, who weighs only 69 pounds, trudged into his classroom with the 10 1/2-pound chain wrapped around his waist, but that it fell, clanking, to the floor, making his progress difficult.

Judge Capell directed county jail officials to care for the boy. Leeth was held without charge pending further inquiry.

MRS. DANIEL P. HILL PASSES AT RESIDENCE

Final rites for Mrs. Daniel P. Hill, of 1135 Oxford road, N. E., were held at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the residence.

The Rev. W. H. Knight and Dr. Louie D. Newton officiated, and burial was in West View cemetery, under direction of H. M. Patterson Son.

Mr. Hill gave Robert's sister a key to the padlock to liberate the boy, only if the teacher tries to get the chain off.

Robert said that the length of the chain when attached to the stove gave him room to lie in a cramped position on a nearby coil but that weight of his shackles prevented him from sleeping. He said he had been chained up several times before. The boy said he was refused the respite of Atlanta.

Three white men were fined $650 yesterday in Fulton criminal court for long-term imprisonment.

J. B. Gilstrap was fined $450 or four years' imprisonment on four charges, while Roy Gilstrap and Riley Hart were fined $100 or 12 months each by Judge Jess M. Wood.

WHITE TO MANAGE ORPHANS' HOME

Mrs. White Is Named His Associate at Baptist Institution.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. White were appointed general manager and associate manager, respectively, of the Georgia Baptist Orphans home, Hapeville, at the quarterly meeting of the board of trustees.

Rev. Mr. White, residents of West End for the past 25 years, have taken an active part in religious, fraternal and civil affairs. Mr. White, a deacon in the West End Baptist church, has served as chairman of the board for the past nine years. He is general superintendent of the Sunday school and is a member of the finance committee and chairman of the religious education committee.

Mr. White is a Mason and is past master of the W. D. Luckin Lodge No. 89. He is also past master of the fifth district Masonic convention. He is a member of the West End Businessmen's Association.

Mrs. White received her education at Bessie Tift College and has done outstanding work in the West End Baptist church. She has served as president of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Lee Street school and president of the Parent-Teacher Association of Joe Brown Junior High school.

Mrs. and Mrs. White will begin their new duties on November 1.

Roosevelt Lauds Work of Macon Convention

President Roosevelt's "deep appreciation" of the support pledged by the Georgia nominating convention was expressed in a telegram made public yesterday by Party Chairman Charles S. Reid.

The President's message to Reid said:

"The whole-hearted assurance of loyalty which you convey in advising me of the action of the Georgia State Democratic convention in indorsing the administration gives me new strength and new courage to go on with the work. With such support we shall not fail in completing the task to which we have set our hand. Please convey my hearty felicitations and assure each and every one of them of my deep appreciation of their pledge of faith in me and in the principles to which we all adhere."

Mr. White is a Mason and is past master of the W. D. Luckin Lodge No. 89. He is also past master of the fifth district Masonic convention. He is a member of the West End Businessmen's Association.

SECURITY HEARING W. B. SMITH, 61, DIES TO BE HELD OCT. 22 AT LENOIR, N. C. HOME

Southern Coal Company Files Suit Against U. S., Alabama Plans.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 9.—(UPI)—The federal government's social security program was attacked in United States district court today and the case immediately set for trial October 22 to expedite a quick trip to the United States supreme court.

Borden Burr, counsel for the Southern Coal & Coke Company, a Delaware corporation doing business in Shelby county, Alabama, filed the new suit, and included a challenge of Alabama's unemployment insurance law.

Burr announced the filing of the new attacks as attorneys for scores of firms gathered before Judge C. B. Kennerly in United States district court to start the hearing on suits questioning validity of state's unemployment insurance laws.

Agreement quickly was reached for these suits to be held in abeyance while the major suit was pushed through to a quick decision.

Under the agreement, all cases due by the firms will be put into a federal depositary and a temporary restraining order already granted will be extended from time to time until the major suit has been settled.

TODAY IS 'WORK DAY' FOR ORPHANS' HOME

"Work Day" offering, an annual offering taken in the fall from which the church orphan's home receives its principal financial support, will be taken in all Methodist churches and Sunday schools throughout the North Georgia conference tomorrow, R. B. Hawkins, home superintendent, announced yesterday.

A large increase in the number of children entered this year makes it necessary for a larger offering, Mr. Hawkins said. These offerings will represent the money income of the home's friends derived from the labor of today, designated as "Work Day."

'YOUR FIGURE, MADAME!'

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

This is well worth your time and effort:

Position: Standing erect, hand on back of chair for support.

Movement: Raise leg to right angle in front of body, knee straight.

Holding the leg as high as possible and keeping the knee straight, circle the leg around, bending at the knee.

Without lowering leg, circle back to front, out the movement. Repeat five times, keeping the knee straight throughout before touching the foot to floor.

Later increase five times with other leg. Increase to 10 times with each leg, resting after each leg extended.

Exercise is your figure normalizing process. It may seem a little too good to be true that an exercise can reduce, build or redistribute weight, but nevertheless it is possible.

Exercise oxidizes fatty tissue, and by activating the underlying muscles you can reduce in spots. Underdevelopment and hollows are due to want of activity, and by exercising the figures is restored to regain normal tone.

Keep the knee straight throughout the movement.

Position: Lying face down on floor, chin resting on folded arms, legs extended.

Movement: Counting rhythmically, raise left leg from front as high as possible on the count of one, bend leg at knee; three, straighten leg; four, return to position. Perform with right leg. Repeat five times, keeping the knee straight throughout the movement.

Exercise is your figure normalizing process. It may seem a little too good to be true that an exercise can reduce, build or redistribute weight, but nevertheless it is possible.

Here's Kentucky's
Threat for Tech

Here's what the Tech team will see, peering across the barrier today. It's the Kentucky lineup, as posed by Chet

called "the greatest team Kentucky ever had," is this team. And it expects to beat Tech today at Grant field.

Greatest 'Cat Team Battles Tech Today

Game Rated as Toss-up With Both Teams in Great Shape.

By Ralph McGill.

"The greatest football team Kentucky has ever had" will meet Georgia Tech's best eleven since the halcyon days of 1928, this afternoon on Grant field with the kick-off scheduled at 2 o'clock.

The Kentucky eleven arrived yesterday and took a light workout in the mild October showers. Georgia Tech stuck to the old camping grounds at the Rose Bowl field.

Rain, which mars any football game and which would especially handicap these two teams because of their open attack, is scheduled to halt at an early hour this morning. If it does the field will be fit.

Both teams are in shape. Georgia Tech has an injured fullback in Dick Beard, and two reserve guards are limping. Kentucky has Bert Johnson, and two others are disabled. But all injured will be able to play if needed and Johnson is named in the opening lineup.

JORDAN TO START.

Coach William Alexander, of the Techs, indicated yesterday he would start Bill Jordan at end in place of Ed Jones.

If he does, it means a concession to defense. Jordan is heavier and more rugged and perhaps a better defensive man but lacks Jones' facility for catching passes and carrying the ball.

Georgia Tech is mustering what is believed to be its best defensive

AUBURNFAVORED OVER TENNESSEE

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Two mighty football stars—Auburn and Tennessee—match power and prowess here tomorrow in one of Dixie's outstanding gridiron classics.

Fair and cooler weather was predicted for the game tonight, giving promise of a fast field and a crowd of more than 15,000.

It will be the first Southeastern conference test for Coach Bob Neyland's fast-stepping Volunteers.

The Plainsmen, rated as one of the south's top-ranking teams, will present a solid line of six seniors and two juniors, compared with Tennessee's starting eleven of four sophomores, four juniors and three seniors.

Each team presents a stellar half-back performer—Billy Hitchcock of Auburn, and Phil Dickens of Tennessee.

Because of their weight and experience, Auburn rated a slight favorite over the Volunteers. The teams have met three times before, Auburn winning 23 to 0 in 1930 and Tennessee taking the next two, 27 to 0 in 1929 and 13 to 6 last fall.

"Just a minute," said Mr. Wynne.

He picked up the telephone, asked for long distance, and a Lexington number. There was a slight wait.

"Hello!" said Mr. Wynne. "I just got some good dope. I feel a lot better about the game. You can tell the boys we ought to win this one."

"You really feel pretty sure about Tech?" asked Mr. Wynne, when he had hung up the telephone.

"Quite."

"That's fine," said Mr. Wynne. "I feel better every minute."

Only once have I been able to sell Mr. Wynne on an idea.

That was in 1929. Mr. Wynne had just come to Auburn. He was starting out, along with Mr. Roger Kiley, his end coach, for the Birmingham-Southern game at Montgomery. They were very worried, were Mr. Wynne and Mr. Kiley.

Your correspondent stood with them on the vestibule of a day coach rattling toward Montgomery. In a half hour your correspondent had the two coaches in a cheerful frame of mind.

"Don't worry. Even if it is a green team, you will beat Birmingham-Southern. They just aren't in your league, that's all."

That night, in the rain, Birmingham-Southern beat

Auburn.

Since that time Mr. Wynne has been very suspicious of my selections.

But maybe he had the receiver on the telephone hook, at that. No one ever got a telephone connection that fast.

Anyhow, I like Tech to win. If there isn't any rain. If it rains, anything can happen.

MR. WYNNE'S SAMPLES.

The hunch on Tech to win suffered some pretty severe jolts.

Mr. Wynne got out some very fine samples of the latest in pessimism.

"If Georgia Tech plays as well as the team did against Georgia last fall, they'll beat us," he said. "I know that much."

I continued to eye Mr. Wynne coldly.

"Don't forget," he continued, "that I lost an end, a guard, a quarterback and a fullback who played most of the Tech game last year. And I don't think Tech was in the best of condition that year and I know they are this year."

Mr. Porter Grant, who learned at Auburn, started in where

Pitt-Ohio State, Minnesota-Nebraska in Feature Games

BUCKS' FAVERED TO NIP PANTHERS IN CLOSE BATTLE

Gophers Given Slight Edge Over Huskers; Big Crowds To See Tilts.

By Alan Gould.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(P)—The pursuit of the elusive pigskin, as practiced in the collegiate circles, becomes the dominant attraction of the fast-moving American sports panorama tomorrow.

Big Ten territory is the focal point of the big league activities with five outstanding games figuring to draw upwards of 250,000 spectators. Topping this group is the clash between two of the nation's powerhouse teams, Pittsburgh and Ohio State, at Columbus before an expected crowd of 75,000. A sellout of 55,000 is reported for Nebraska's challenge to Minnesota at Minneapolis, where the gallowing Gophers will seek their nineteenth consecutive triumph.

Along the eastern front, close to 100,000 spectators in the New York metropolitan districts alone will witness the week-end football openings, with the Army-Columbia game at the Yankee stadium the main magnet. The first appearance of the Cadets here this season likely will draw 55,000 fans to the spot where the Yankees were busy sacking the World Series heroes of the Giants a week ago.

COAST ATTRACTIONS.

On the west coast, Saturday's top event, 50,000 expected at Los Angeles, is the football contest with U. C. L. A. As many more may see the powerful St. Mary's Gaels tangle with Loyola in the same town Sunday, Dallas anticipates 35,000 onlookers at the southwest feature game between Texas and Oklahoma.

It seems clear, from these manifestations, not only that a banner box-office season is in prospect but that the sectional as well as inter-sectional rivalry already has aroused high-points of interest.

The hub-hub may be at its highest along High street, Columbus, where the citizens have not yet forgotten Notre Dame's dramatic rush to last-period victory over Ohio State last year. Pittsburgh now offers the first big obstacle for national championship recognition. Since the Panthers entertain equally tall ambitions, it is clear that the impact will be terrific.

Petrel-Moccasin Game Postponed

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 9.—(P)—A driving rain tonight which made the Moccasin-Chattanooga field for the University of Chattanooga-Moccasin and the Oglethorpe Petrels to postpone their grid battle until tomorrow afternoon.

Coach Andy Moore of the Moccasins, said that the game would be played tomorrow, regardless of the weather.

Both teams were in good shape for the fray.

The SPORTLIGHT by GRANTLAND RICE

(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)
*This is the day where prophets quake—
Where bold soothsayers skid and shake—
Where strong, unbeaten teams must spin
And take it roughly on the chin—
From southern roost to northern plot
The dops is in a tangled knot—
The only upsets that I know
Are those selections that you blow.*

THE ROUNDUP.

Ohio State-Pittsburgh—Columbus—The day's stand-out—when it comes to all-around strength on both sides—is to the matter of national ranking—and the toughest pick of the day. Pitt has a fast, rugged line and a fine set of backs. So has Ohio State. Both are ably coached—but Dutch Koenemann and Harry Appleby to move the ball forward. Two good teams meet today. That much is sure.

The issue is not at all sure, Georgia Tech was a slight favorite until Friday when the Kentucky money appeared and covered all the point-bets offered. Event money was the word late yesterday and will be today at kick-off time.

Both coaches issued typical game statements.

They hoped for the best, saw the rival team as the best and let it go at that.

Chester Wynne, formerly of Auburn and for two seasons at Kentucky, said:

"This Tech team, which we beat last season in an early game, plays as well as it did to close out in beating Georgia last fall, we can't win."

AN UPHILL FIGHT.

Said Coach Alexander of Kentucky beat us last year. They have more good backs and we will have an uphill fight."

The weights will be about even. Team speed favors Kentucky.

The reserves on the Kentuck list seem a bit more plentiful and capable but the game must determine this.

While the odds remained even, the tremendous enthusiasm of the Tech supporters, made that team a sentimental favorite to win.

But meanwhile the Kentucky coaches appeared calm, collected and as cool as a cucumber.

A crowd of from 16,000 to 20,000 is expected for the game, depending on the weather. The seats will be sold today. There are plenty of them, people having waited on the weather.

Minnesota-Nebraska—Minneapolis—One of the feature games of the south, both are stronger than a year ago—Georgia Tech especially. Kentucky reserves among the better southern teams—but Georgia Tech should have the call.

Other scores were: Hunter Lyon, Miami, 182; Clyde King Jr., 181; Benson Freeman, 182; Gordon Hight, 177; Ed Layne, Nashville, Tenn., 180; J. D. McCullough, Aurora, Ill., 181.

FALL FESTIVAL SHOOT BEGINS

Jack Twy, with 194x200, won high gun yesterday in the first day's events of the Fall Festival shoot at the Captain Cook Club. Because of inclement weather, the competition was delayed with U. C. L. A. As many more may see the powerful St. Mary's Gaels tangle with Loyola in the same town Sunday, Dallas anticipates 35,000 onlookers at the southwest feature game between Texas and Oklahoma.

It seems clear, from these manifestations, not only that a banner box-office season is in prospect but that the sectional as well as inter-sectional rivalry already has aroused high-points of interest.

Coach Andy Moore of the Moccasins, said that the game would be played tomorrow, regardless of the weather.

Both teams were in good shape for the fray.

Bernie Bierman's Minnesota Gophers already taken one high hurdle against Washington. They have another one Saturday against a strong Nebraska team. Nebraska has Cardwell ready—Cardwell and others—but Minnesota has too many guns. This will be another hard Minnesota test, but the Gophers are the pick.

Minnesota-Nebraska—Minneapolis—One of the feature games of the south, both are stronger than a year ago—Georgia Tech especially. Kentucky reserves among the better southern teams—but Georgia Tech should have the call.

Bryan Grant Given Eighth Place in World Tennis Ranking

TINY ATLANTAN GAINS 'TOP TEN' FOR FIRST TIME

A. Wallis Myers, British Authority, Lists Seven Americans in Ratings.

By Bob Cavagnaro.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Fred Perry, of England, and Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal., rule the tennis roosts of the world, in the opinion of A. Wallis Myers, British authority, who lists seven Americans in his "first ten" rankings for 1936.

Perry retained the No. 1 position without dispute by holding the all-England title and recapturing the American championship.

Miss Jacobs was elevated to the spot mainly as a reward for perseverance—winning all-England crown after eight unsuccessful attempts—and despite her loss of the American title.

This year's rankings saw red-headed Don Budge, of Oakland, Cal., pull up from sixth to third behind the German, Gottfried von Cramm; Wimber Allison, of Austin, Texas, 1935 national titleholder, dropped from fourth to ninth; and Bryan Grant, Jr., of Atlanta, admitted to the exclusive set for the first time at No. 8.

WOOD, SHIELDS OUT.

Two others, Adriano Karl Quist, of Australia, and Heiner Henkel, of Germany, also were given international ratings as Sidney Wood, of New York; Frank Shields, of Hollywood, and Christian Boussus, of France, were dropped.

Back of the three leaders, Myers graded the men's list as follows: No. 4, Quist; No. 5, H. W. (Bunny) Austin, England; No. 6, Jack Crawford, Australia; No. 7, Allison; No. 10, Vivian McGrath, Australia; No. 11, Eddie Karp, of Chicago; Miss Sarah Palfrey Fabian, of Brooklyn, Mass., and Carolin Babcock, of Los Angeles.

Miss Jacobs took the place of Helen Wills Moody, who received no consideration and ranking because she confined her competitive campaign to minor American tournaments.

Miss Marble, Miss McCreary, and Sonja Henie were notable among the newcomers. The American girl came out of a two-year retirement and dethroned Miss Jacobs as American titleholder. Her triumph "justified all her earlier hopes," Myers observed.

LAKWOOD RACE SLATED TODAY

A carnival of speed, bicycle, tennis and automobile, featuring some of the country's outstanding performers in each class, will be presented on the Lakewood track starting at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

National circuit automobile races, postal and stock car races, and post road races, which have been added to the program, making it one of the most attractive ever offered Atlanta's race fans.

The third and final of the three days of automobile races will be at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon as scheduled in a grand finale to the 1936 Southeastern Fair race program.

Joe Gluck Jr., Atlanta's city bicyclist champion and a third-place winner in the Olympic trials in New Jersey, will be included in the one hour of bicycle racing.

The bicycle race program includes, half-mile and mile races for juniors and seniors, two miles for juniors, five miles for seniors over 16 years of age and a mile-free-for-all, open to all stock bicyclists.

The Lakewood Dixie Motorcycle Club are sponsoring the one hour of motorcycle races. There will be eight events on the program, starting at 2 o'clock.

Trick riding, bulldogging, three-mile race, polo match, three-mile challenge, barrel race, 22 in sweep race and a seven-mile feature race are included on the motorcycle race card.

Gus Schrader and Emory Collins, tied for national dirt track records in the 3 o'clock races this afternoon.

Buddy Callaway, popular Macon driver, who suffered his first motor trouble on the Lakewood track Sunday after setting a new track record, will be back in some of the cash prizes this afternoon.

Schrader lowered Callaway's track record and set a new all-time Lakewood record with a run of 41.2 seconds for the mile.

Eight Georgia drivers, Foggy and Buddy Callaway, Maxie Crash Walker, G. Braden, Pete Craig, Red Singleton, Harley Taylor and Gordon Chard, the last four from Atlanta, will compete with the nation's best drivers in the eight-event card today.

MORRIS BROWN ROUTS CLAFLIN

Morris Brown College turned on the power for the first time this season to smother a Claflin University team in a revenge game by a one-sided score, 40-0.

In a touchdown march by Sad Sam Jones, Braxton, Parks, Harmon, English and the rest of the backfield luminaries that Coaches Lockhart and Graves threw at the invaders.

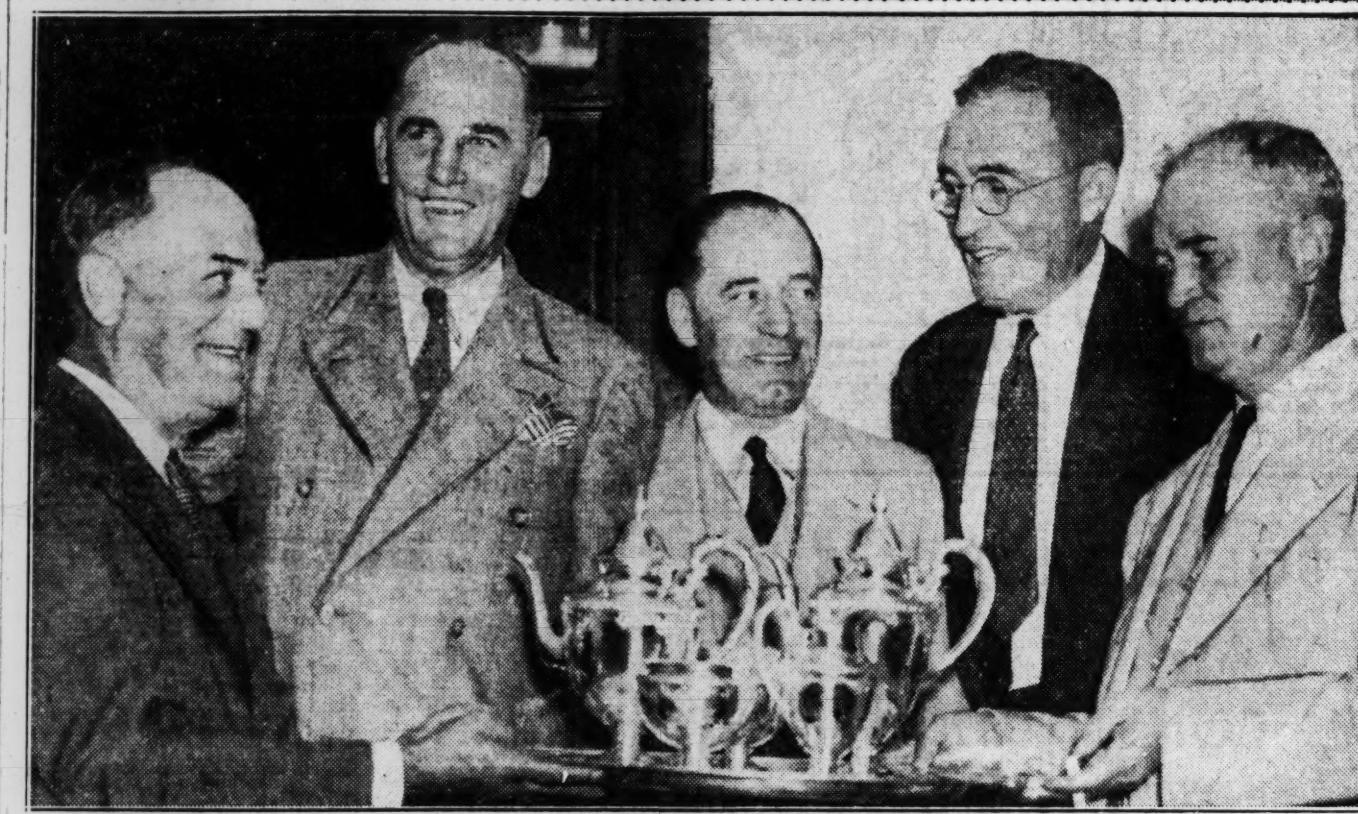

Gaining 38 yards from the line of scrimmage against 28 for Claflin, the Wolverines flashed a new offensive. So fast and devastating was their attack that they caught their opponents flat-footed.

Claflin, making only one first down throughout the entire game was clearly out-classed, outplayed and out-smarted.

OVER-CONFIDENT?

NEW YORK—Lou Little comes right out with bad news for any and all of Columbia's enemies this year. "There's the squad," he says of his Lions, "and we'll lick any outfit you send against us." (Which is sticking his chin out a long way.)

Old Tech Players Honor 'Alex' at Dinner

More than 100 Tech lettermen, who played for Tech during the reign of the late John Heisman and the present Coach W. A. Alexander, last night gathered at the Atlanta Athletic Club to honor Coach Alex with a buffet supper and to present him with a silver service. In the foreground, left is Colonel "Big Bob" Jones, presenting the service to Coach Alex, right. Behind them are three former players, gathered round from those nearest at the time of the picture. Left to right: "Candy" Alexander, star end; Cherry Emerson, and Ben Sinclair. The latter was on the team with "Alex."

Former Tech Players Honor 'The Old Man'

Silver Service Presented Coach W. A. Alexander, Who Has Served 25 Years.

By Ralph McGill.

They honored the Old Man last night. And the next time I see Big Bob Jones I am going to say, "Make it again."

The reference will be to his speech of presentation to William Alexander, the "Old Man" who has been on the Tech coaching staff for a quarter of a century. And who is starting his 17th year as head coach.

That speech was a master speech.

And so moved was Col. Big Bob Jones that he forgot to present the beautiful silver service, which was engraved to Coach Alexander from The Old Lettermen at Georgia Tech in appreciation of his efforts.

He had to hustle back, did Big Bob Jones, and unveil the silver service and present it.

ALEXANDER TOUCHED.

Mr. Alexander, always sparing of words, was deeply touched. He thanked the boys—and they were there from the gay nineties to the last year—and he thanked all his friends who were there. And when lettermen

"It's always considered a bad omen," he said, "to give a coach a dinner or a gift on the even of a big game. He usually gets the tar heat out of him the next day."

"But I told the players at practice this afternoon the old boys would be sitting behind them. And I told them that if they knew the essentials well, if they tackled hard and blocked hard and followed the ball, then the old boys would not be ashamed of them even if they lost."

The master of ceremonies was L. W. (Chip) Robert, secretary of the National Democratic committee.

Red Barron (the Original Red), responded for the lettermen. He played under Heisman and Alexander. Dr. W. A. Brittain, president, spoke for Tech.

Morgan Blake, of the Journal; Ed Danforth, of the Georgian, and Ralph McGill, of The Constitution, represented the newspapers.

Coach Alexander came to Tech in 1906 as a gangling, red-headed, popular boy from a small town high school grad at Tech in those days.

He was made coach of the freshman team in 1909 and in 1911 he was graduated after playing four years as a sub at every position except center.

John Heisman made him assistant coach and in 1913 he became head coach. This is his 17th season in that capacity.

One of the outstanding coaches in the game, he enjoys unusual popularity.

A great many famous names in Tech history were present.

BOMBER BLASTS GEORGE BRESCIA IN THREE ROUNDS

Argentine Proves Just Another Chopping Block for Joe Louis.

By John Lardner,

HIPPODROME, NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—To the surprise of everybody, probably including himself, Big Jorge Brescia, of the Argentine, made a pretty fair thing of his battle with Joe Louis in the Hippodrome here tonight before he went the way of all flesh, in two minutes and 12 seconds of the third round.

The blow that knocked Big Jorge from his underpinning, and laid him horizontal for all of the required 10 seconds, was a short right hook to the chin, followed by a long left that Louis threw in there as an afterthought. The punch with the right was sufficient. Brescia crumpled, a second round he stung the Bomber into a wild exchange of blows that was something new to the aficionados who have been following Joe up and down and up again in his brief but sensational career.

CATCHES JAW.

Louis Wins.

Brescia, who was expected to constitute the bloodiest target in Louis' extensive collection of bloody targets, gave the 6,000 fans their money's worth by hurling four or five right-hand blows of his own back at Louis' chin. Twice he landed, and the second time he stung the Bomber into a wild exchange of blows that was something new to the aficionados who have been following Joe up and down and up again in his brief but sensational career.

PEACE BASIS LAID
AT A. F. OF L. MEET

Industrial Unions May Take Part in Convention in Florida.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(P)—A concrete suggestion for peace in organized labor's family quarrel was laid before the executive council of the American Federation of Labor today for action predicted officially "before long."

The proposal, read at the close of today's council sessions, was a result from the united hatters, can and millinery workers' international union.

It asked that the council permit representatives of ten unions, which it is suspended for participation in the committee for industrial organization, to take part in the federation's annual convention, scheduled for November 10 at Tampa, Fla.

It suggested that the convention, with the industrial union group as a part, then pass judgment on the controversy. It also asked that subcommittees be appointed from both the federation council and the industrial organization committee to meet in an effort to solve their quarrel over industrial versus craft organization of workers.

ELI HILLARD NOLEN, 55, PASSES IN HOSPITAL

HILLARD Nolen, 55, veteran car worker for the Southern Railway System, died yesterday afternoon at a private hospital of injuries suffered recently when a piece of steel struck his foot.

Blood-poisoning was the cause of death.

Nolen is survived by his wife, three sons, John C., Marcelius and Celophus Nolen; two daughters, Mrs. M. E. Henson and Miss Zenno Nolen; three sisters, Mrs. T. J. Leach, Mrs. Fred Anderson and Mrs. D. E. Stallings; and three brothers, Argus, Ben and J. Nolen.

Final rites will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the funeral of J. Austin Dillon. Burial will be in Villa Rica cemetery.
